QUAINT BATAVIA.

Java's Picturesque Town and the People One Meets There.

Imagine a town of giant dolls' houses built in Burmese and Japanese style, trim avenues of beautiful trees, broad, clean streets and thousands of grown up dolls masquerading in oriental fancy dress, the picture book of one's childhood animated—that is Batavia.

The streets are paraded listlessly by gangs of blue garbed convicts, who pick up cigar ends, bits of paper and fruit peel. The cleanliness of the streets is astonishing.

A man in Batavia once threw a piece of banana peel on the ground, and looking back a moment afterward, he felt reproached by the sight of that wretched piece of peel, the only blot on the immaculate cleanness of the streets. For awhile his dignity fought with his sense of decency. Then he returned, picked up the offending peel, and—feeling very foolish—carried it until he saw a convenient opportunity for disposing of it.

Representatives of many nations congregate in Batavia, blue gowned Javanese, wearing white pill helmets shaped like inverted saucers; portly Chinese merchants, dressed in a grotesque combination of yellow silk clothes and billycock hats of Hampstead Heath, their pigtail interwoven with blue silk; lean, bony Malays, Hindoes, Javanese and effeminate looking Cingalese jostle each other on the sidewalks.

It is impossible for a casual observer to distinguish the sex of a Cingalese, as the men have delicate, refined features, are clean shaven, fasten their long hair behind their heads in woman fashion and wear skirts that sweep the ground.

The dress of the Javanese women merits a detailed description, as the Batavian Dutch ladies have adopted the native dress for morning wear.

A long strip of native cloth, called a sarong, is wound round and round the body beneath the armpits and reaches almost to the ankles. An abbreviated Eton jacket, called a kopeta, covers the shoulders, and out of doors ladies' slippers are worn on stocking feet, and a paper parasol is carried.

The Batavian Dutch do not make their toilets, unless they go out of doors, until the afternoon, so that one may see men in pyjamas and women in the native dress lolling on the verandas or sitting down to meals at the hotels. The custom is a lazy but sensible one, considering the climate.—Chambers' Journal.

When Dinner Is Over.
As a rule an hour to an hour and a half is spent in conversation after a dinner when neither host nor guests have any other engagement for the evening. When a lady and gentleman are dining together the lady makes the first motion at departure, the gentleman promptly following her lead. No matter how numerous the company, no guest should depart without bidding adieu to the hostess with thanks for her hospitality. These need be neither stiff nor effusive, just some little words of appreciation of the pleasure you have enjoyed in her home. Goodbys may be said to other friends present before you bid adieu to the hostess or to any standing near the door as you pass out, but do not stop for any lengthy conversation after having said good night to your entertainers.

Suicide by Smoking.

One of the most extraordinary succides on record was enacted in Pesth.
Baron Bela Oily, a wealthy citizen, deliberately poisoned himself by smoking cigars and tobacco to excess. The baron had lost a large fortune in speculation. Having a wife and six children, he insured himself very heavily in their behalf in five companies and then proceeded to put into operation his unique plan for self destruction. He hired a small room in a mean portion of the city and in ten months died of what the doctors called "galloping consumption." He had consumed 3,500 cigars and about a hundred pounds of tobacco.

The son of the self made man generally begins at the top and works downward.—Chicago Record-Herald.

LIFE IN ENGLISH VILLAGES.

It Is Not the Idyllic Form That Poets Sing About.

"I know a village where there are no fewer than thirty cottages with but one bedroom apiece, and in each of these single bedrooms six, seven and more people are sleeping," says A.
Montefiore-Bruce, writing in the London Mail about life in the average English village. "In one of them, father, mother and eight children huddled together. In another, father, mother and six children—three of whom are grown up—are sleeping. In these cottages there is one living room downstairs and no sanitary arrangement of any kind. At the back of the cottages runs an open ditch. It is also an open sewer."

"Here, in the very heart of the country, I expect to find abundance of pure water, abundance of sweet air. Too often I find neither about the cottages.
Hundreds of villages have no water supply, though a comparatively small expenditure could provide it. I know a village—it is typical of hundreds—where the cottagers have to go half a mile to get water. A foul ditch furnishes another village with the whole of its water supply. Offensive refuse heaps lie piled round the crumbling walls of the cottages. The wooden floors within are rotten with sewage."

"Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex contain many such villages, and other counties —such as Bedford, Cambridgeshire, Wiltshire, Dorset, Somerset—easily vie with them. I could write of lonely cottages far across the fields, with no water within a mile, whence the children morning after morning walk two miles to school, and drag their tired limbs that distance back again at night —and this whatever the weather; where the postal service comes but once a week; where the men and boys walk daily five or six miles to and from work; where of drainage there is none; where of the simplest sanitation there is none; where the medical officer of health comes not, and where the inspector of nuisances is unknown."

Did the Best She Could.

Mrs. Uppmann—I must tell you, Delia, that I was displaced at your entertaining that policeman in the kitchen last night.

Della—Faith, Oi did ax him into all parlor, ma'am, but he wouldn't go.— Philadelphia Ledger.

Framing an Excuse.

Little Boy—Please, Mrs. Grumpy, mother wants to know if you will lend her your washbub.

Mrs. Grumpy (gruffly)—No, I can't.
The hoops are off, the bottom's out and it's full of water.—Glasgow Times.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease.
It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

A HISTORIC CHEESE.

THE MONSTER THAT CHESHIRE SENT TO PRESIDENT JEFFERSON.

Nearly Every One in Town Contributed Curd, and Elder John Leland Boasted the Job—The Formal Presentation at the White House.

The story of the great cheese made at Cheshire in 1801 and sent the following winter to President Jefferson as a New Year's present has been many times told in prose and verse, but is worthy of reiteration as an interesting bit of local history, showing, as it does, the patriotic spirit by which the good people of Cheshire were moved and the novel manner they chose for its expression.

In those days Cheshire was famous for three things—its exceptionally fine dairying interests and products, the very high universal adhesion of the voting population to the Democratic party and Elder John Leland, an able, eccentric and witty Baptist divine, whose fame is a part of the history of Cheshire. Elder Leland and most of the people of the town were ardent admirers of Thomas Jefferson, and when he was elected president of the United States their joy was unbounded. It was finally decided that it would be proper to give to their esteem a tangible expression in the form of a mammoth cheese, which should show to the president the quality of their material resources and something of the extent of their admiration for him.

The announcement of this plan was made by Elder Leland from his pulpit one Sunday morning and was received with pleasure by the people. July 20, 1801, was the date set for the making of the cheese, and the plan was to have all the owners of cows in the town, with the exception of the few federal-ists there were, to make their curd and carry it to a central place for pressing.
Of course there was no cheese press large enough for the pressing of such a cheese as was proposed, and Elisha Brown's cider press was consequently selected for the work.

When the day came for making the cheese the people gathered from all parts of the town. Those who had curd to contribute brought it with them, some in large quantities and some in small, but all extremely proud to contribute to the monster cheese that was to be sent to the president. Besides being a busy day it was also a gala day for the inhabitants of Cheshire. The farmers and their wives and families turned out en masse to witness the construction of what proved to be the most famous cheese in all history, for, though a still larger cheese was made in the town at a later date, this was the president's cheese, and the great Elder Leland, who in the estimation of the people of Cheshire was second in importance only to President Jefferson himself, was leading and directing the enterprise. Most of those present were arrayed in their Sunday best, though the women who superintended the mixing of the curd were obliged to wear protecting aprons.

The hoop in which the cheese was pressed was made for the occasion. It was four feet in diameter and eighteen inches deep and was secured with strong bands of iron to enable it to stand the pressure. When all of the curd had been mixed and salted it was placed in this hoop, a follower which had also been made especially for the purpose was placed upon it, and the ponderous wooden screws of the old cider mill were turned down on the most precious body they had ever compressed. After all was done a hymn lined off by Elder Leland was sung by the assemblage, and the people separated for their homes, highly satisfied with and very proud of their day's work. Some days after it was made the cheese was taken to Captain Daniel Brown's cheese house to be cured.
Its weight one month from the time it was pressed was 1,235 pounds. The moving of the cheese from the cider press to Captain Brown's was made a great occasion. The people turned out again, and the cheese was followed by a procession. Moses Wolcott, who kept the "tavern," gave a feast to all present and thereby linked his name to this part of the town's history.

The following December the great cheese was sent to Washington in charge of Elder Leland and Darius Brown. There were no railroads in those days, and it was drawn on a sled to Hudson, N. Y., and shipped from there by water. The presentation of the cheese to the president was an event of moment in Washington. The presentation was made at the White House in the presence of the cabinet, foreign diplomats and other notables.
Elder Leland serving as spokesman and assuring the president in suitable terms of the great esteem in which he was held by the people from whom the gift had come.—Springfield Republican.

The Center of Observation.
"Say, paw, was you ever the cynosore of all eyes?"
"Yes, the other day when I went running down the middle of the street after my hat I'll bet there wasn't a man, woman or child in town who wasn't there looking at me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Concept of Modern Life.
The concept of modern life is self centered almost wholly. Our purposes if defined leave only the most selfish and artificial basis. Men and women by countless thousands are steering their lives without compass or definite guide.

man, I am told."
"Oh, very! I don't believe there is a duce which he can't dance with his

PLANT EVOLUTION.

Cultivation Has Done Wonders For Fruit and Vegetables.

There are few more wrongly named things in the world than the Jerusalem artichoke. In the first place it never came from Jerusalem at all. And in the second it is not really an artichoke, but a sunflower with its tubers developed by cultivation.

Cultivation has done wonders for
fruit and vegetables.

For instance, through its means peaches, apricots and nectarines have been developed from the almond, to which family all three fruits belong.

There is little apparent connection between the wild crab of the hedgerows and a Newtown pippin, but both are members of the same genus. Indeed, it is from this same wild crabapple that the whole of the 700 odd existing varieties of apples have been raised.

Technically speaking, too, the pear is an apple, and so are the medlar and the mountain ash, which latter is not an ash at all.

Is a turnip a cabbage? Yes, one variety at least of it is. This is the queer vegetable known as kohlrabi, which, although classed by scientists among the Brassica, or cabbage, family, has huge roots just like a turnip.

The cucumber is really a fruit and not a vegetable. The same remark applies to the tomato, which is really a fruit also.

The gooseberry is a currant. It is not the least like it in either appearance or flavor, yet both belong to the same family of Ribes.

The onion is a charming little flower, its various species bearing white, yellow, blue and rose colored blossoms, many produced in beautiful drooping clusters. Originally the onion was a flowering plant, but the cultivation of certain of its varieties has produced the new world famous vegetable.

When is a chestnut not a chestnut?
When it is a horse chestnut. This is another of the curiosities of the classification of horticultural nomenclature.
The horse chestnut is Aesculus, and the other kind Castanea.—Stray Stories.

ANIMAL SWIMMERS.

The Squirrel Is Very Swift and the Rabbit Is Oddly Awkward.

Almost all animals know how to swim without having to learn it. As soon as they fall into the water or are driven into it they instinctively make the proper motions and not only manage to keep afloat, but propel themselves without trouble.

Exceptions are the monkey, the camel, giraffe and llama, which cannot swim without assistance. Camels and llamas have to be helped across water, and giraffes and monkeys drown if they enter it. Now and then both of the latter species manage to cross waterways when they are driven to extremities, just as human beings occasionally can keep themselves above water through sheer fright.

A funny though able swimmer is the rabbit. He submerges his body with the exception of head and tail. The latter sticks away up into the air, and his hind legs make "sloop sloop" as he churns the water madly to get away.
But with all his awkwardness he is a swift swimmer and is only beaten by the squirrel among the land animals.

The squirrel swims with his heavy tail sunk away down in the water and his head held high. He cleaves the waves like a duck, and a man in a row-boat has all he can do to keep abreast of the swimming squirrel.

One thing that none of the land living animals does is to dive. No matter how hard pressed a swimming deer, rabbit, squirrel or other purely terrestrial animal may be it will remain above water. But the muskrat, beaver, ice bear and otter dive immediately.

The Lawyer's Rule.

"Ever since beginning the practice of law," said a Detroit lawyer, who legged that his name be suppressed, "I have made it a rule not to take cases in which I could not promise my client a percentage of gain over my fees. One day not long ago a business man came to me with a request to sue a debtor.
I found it would cost far more than could be recovered and told him so. He was indignant and left vowing to get a lawyer to press the case regardless of expenses."

"A few weeks later he came to me again. 'Well,' said he, 'I took your advice and saved $250 by it. Now, I want you to take charge of all legal matters affecting the Blank corporation. Your retainer will be $2,000 per year.' I took it. It is needless to say."—Detroit News.

Toad and Not a Toad.
One of the queerest reptiles in the world is the horned toad of Arizona.
In the first place, though it looks like a toad and is so called, it isn't a toad at all, but a lizard. It lives nowhere save in the desert and feeds on hard shelled beetles and other insects.

One of the oddest things about the creature is its way of fighting. Two horned toads will meet and fight like bulls by butting, not apparently with any notion of killing each other, but each trying to turn its adversary over.
The toad that is finally upset goes away humiliated and hides himself.

Breeding Trouble.

Bertie—I don't want to go to bed yet, sis. I want to see you and Mr. Shepherd play cards.

Lucie—You wicked boy to think we should do such a thing! We never do it.

Bertie—But I heard mamma tell you to mind how you played your cards when Mr. Shepherd came!

Not Charged.

"Pardon me," said the smiling customer, "but is this mineral water charged?"
"Not any," replied the fair girl at the counter. "You pay the cashier."—Baltimore News.

Her Little Joke.

They were in the studio. Artists' trappery and Bohemian paraphernalia were placed about the room with studied carelessness.

Heavy tapestries and portieres choked the walls. Costly statuary, medieval firearms, poniards, yataghans and priceless and historic armor were ranged idly about the room.

Seated on a heavily upholstered divan, eying the American dress at work on an intricate landscape, was the duke.

"Bah Jove!" he ejaculated suddenly.
"Do you know, Miss Millyns, I'm wrapped up in you and—"

"Huh!" interrupted the wealthy maiden with Yankee sarcasm. "I don't see why you should be wrapped up.
I haven't bought you yet."

The duke sat dumfounded, wondering what there was in her remark to cause a smile to break out over her sweet visage.—New York Times.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENT

—OF—
THE LATEST ARRIVAL OF NEW GOODS

Our shelves are pretty well cleaned out now of summer goods, and have left us plenty of room wherein to display our new stocks for the fall season. We have endeavored to procure whatever there is new and pretty on the market, and feel confident that our efforts will be appreciated by our many friends and patrons. Last week we received the main part of our new selected stock and have placed them on sale at prices much lower than usual so as to get the right start for the new season.
The following items give you but a slight idea of what we have and the prices at what we sell.

MINING NOTES.

MADRONE—Chris Lesley has secured a bond for two years on this property, which is situated in Pioneer district. He is now engaged in making a test crushing of rock at Stirnman's mill.

KENNEDY.—The starting of the new hoist is a matter of a few days. A larger force of men is employed at this mine than at any time in its history. The addition of twenty stamps to the mill is being proceeded with, which will make 60 stamps at the new mill, and 40 stamps at the old works—100 stamps in all. The cement foundations are being constructed, and some of the mortars are on the ground.

Severely Injured.

A small cave occurred in the Central Eureka mine at about 10 o'clock last Thursday night. On the 1800-foot level about two tons of gouge from the hanging wall fell, catching Richard Bartle, a miner who had just previously left his position to walk out in the drift. Fortunately only a corner of the cave caught him, or he would have been instantly killed. As it was he received severe injuries over his body, the worst being the breaking of two bones in his right forearm near the wrist, severing an artery. On all parts of the body he was severely contused.

The unfortunate is well known among the miners of Sutter Creek, having worked here for several years. He is a member of the Miners' Union. At last accounts his wounds are healing rapidly.—Amador Record.

The exact receipts of the labor day picnic were $1089, exclusive of the lunch booth. The expense account is not entirely made up yet, and will not be known until the next meeting of the union.

SUCCESSFUL LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Largest Picnic Ever Witnessed in the County.—All Classes Turn Out in Honor of the Occasion.—The Program

The first celebration of labor day by the Jackson Union, No. 115, Western Federation of Miners, was a big affair. A large gathering was looked for, but the attendance really eclipsed the largest expectations of the promoters. The members of the labor organizations of the county mustered in full strength; failure to appear in line being made a cause for a fine. Jackson Union being the strongest, far out-numbered the other organizations. It was about 8 o'clock when the procession formed on Court House hill. Headed by the Jackson band, and a carriage containing the officers of the day, the members formed in line four abreast, and marched from Water street up Main street and thence to the picnic grounds at Fullen's grove, about half a mile north west of Martell's station. As the procession passed up Main street, by actual count there were 372 men in line. Arriving at the entrance to the grounds, the Jackson body was met by the procession from the north, comprised of the members of Sutter Creek and Amador Unions, also formidable in point of numbers, but not equal to the main body from the county seat. This body from the north was headed by the Placerville band. All the marchers wore the handsome badge of the Federation suspended from their breasts. At the picnic grove an immense concourse of people—the female sex predominated—had already assembled. The grounds were literally sowed with vehicles and horses, pressed into service in conveying those on pleasure bent to the scene of festivities. A conservative estimate gives the attendance at 3000.

LITERARY EXERCISES. Soon after arrival, the literary program was carried out on the spacious platform as follows:

Music by Jackson band.

Prayer by the chaplain, Rev. F. A. Morrow.

Music by the band.

Address by Hon. L. R. Tulloch of Angels.

Music by the band.

AMUSEMENTS. The amusement program was ample to keep up the interest of the pleasure-seekers throughout the day. There were no long waits between acts. Indeed the program of exercises was so crowded that much of it had to be eliminated for want of time, and in some instances owing to failure of entries.

Immediately after the literary exercises the baseball game was started. The contestants were the Jewel Bours of Jackson, and a team from Mokelumne Hill. The liberal prize of $100 in cash depended upon the outcome. It was a very evenly contested game. Sockeye Ardito, pitcher for the Jacksons, met with an accident which many contend had an important bearing upon the result. While at the bat, he was struck by a swift ball, and although he continued in the game, he was not up to his usual from thereafter. Calaveras boys captured the purse, with a score of 20 to 19. TUG OF WAR—A team of six picked men from Jackson was pitted against an equal number of stout men from Amador City. The prize offered was $50. After a long struggle the Amador City boys were pulled from their mooring by their stouter antagonists. The men comprising the victorious team are as follows: Sam Radovich, Arthur James, H. Leam, Sam Nesovich, John Milovich and Chris Coivich.

BLUE ROCK SHOOTING—In this pastime there were a number of contestants. The first prize of $10 was won by T. K. Norman; second prize, $5, was the tie between F. A. Voorheis, J. Garbarini and W. Tarp; the amount was divided.

RACES. The following races were run, but as no record was kept we are unable to give the names of the winners:

Girls' race under 14, boys' race under 14, young ladies' race, young men's race, married ladies' race, married men's race; prizes in each, 1st, $3; second, $2. Children's race under 10, boys'; ditto, girls'; 1st prize in each $2.50, 2nd, $1.50.

Standing jump, prize, $5, won by Charles Ham, 84 feet.

MINERS' CONTESTS. The two events which elicited the keenest interest among the miners were the shoveling and drilling contests. The entries were confined to members of the Western Federation. The shoveling bout was for a prize of $10. A box was placed on a platform with a pile of rock. The box was of sufficient size to hold 15 hundred pounds—a car load in miner's parlance. The competitor filling the box in the shortest space of time was to be the winner. There were five contestants, and the last one that handled the shovel, C. Chasa, of the Fremont, was the victor, filling the car in 3 minutes 45 seconds. The usual time for filling a car in the mines in fifteen minutes. The record made by the several shovellers is as follows:

F. Dalporta..... 4 24
John Colimovich..... 4 25
J. Dawitt..... 4 33
S. Kocovich..... 4 35
C. Chasa..... 3 45

DRILLING—This was the event of the day. It was different from all other contests of this kind witnessed in this section, the drilling being upward instead of downward. It involved more skill in the use of the hammer, and the process was somewhat slower than down drilling. A massive block of hard granite was raised seven feet from the ground for the operators to work on. Two prizes were offered, both of $75; one for heavy-weights, miners weighing over 145 pounds; one for light-weights of 145 pounds and under. Each team was allowed to furnish its own drills; fifteen minutes was the time allotted; the team making the deepest hole in that time being the winners.

For the heavy-weights three teams entered, the Oneida boys carrying off the prize. The names of the competitors and the records is given below:

Matt Thomas and John Coavich, of the Amador Queen mine, 15 1/2 inches.

George Chinn and Caleb Chinn, of the Kennedy mine, 14 inches.

Jim Bouti and Jos. Zene, of Oneida mine, 20 inches.

LIGHT-WEIGHT DRILLING—Two teams entered, representing the Keystone and Oneida mines. The score was as follows:

Gil Dickerson and Samuel J. Hoskins, Keystone mine, 17 1/2 inches; winners.

Jerome Giusto and L. Avenino, of Oneida, 14 1/2 inches.

The exhibition drill by the members of the Uniform Rank, K. of P., all arrayed in full uniform, was a notable feature of the afternoon. The evolutions were gone through on the large dancing platform, and executed with much precision and skill.

During the remainder of the afternoon and up to 12 o'clock at night, the mammoth platform was occupied by the crowd of dancers, all enjoying themselves to the utmost.

Frank Simich of the Union House furnished dinner and supper for the crowds. His preparations were on a most liberal scale, but the rush for the good things far exceeded his utmost expectations. At the meal hours were kept going attended to customers.

The ice cream stand supplied by Mr. Heiser, also did an immense business. The sale of liquor was held by the Union. This was even more liberally patronized than the other stands. The receipts were in keeping with the throngs that pervaded the grounds. Altogether, it is estimated that the income of the union from all sources was in excess of $1900, which will leave a fair margin after paying all expenses—the expenses being unusually heavy.

A conservative estimate of the number on the grounds is from 3000 to 3500. There were no disturbances worth speaking of. Everything passed off peaceably, and the first annual picnic of the Miners' Union must be voted an unqualified success in every respect.

THE JUSTICE'S CASE AND THE SUPERVISORS.

The Board Does the Buttin Act at the Request of Attorney for the Justices.

There was a nice piece of broad comedy enacted by the board of supervisors at its meeting last Tuesday. It would be farcical in the extreme, were it not for the serious side which it displays, namely, the deliberate overstepping of the jurisdiction of that body. It was in relation to the pending appeal of the justice's salary case to the supreme court. The district attorney was absent; so was the county clerk and auditor, C. L. Culbert. They were appointed by the board to attend the state board of equalization in the interest of the county last Saturday, and had not returned from their mission.

W. J. McGee, the attorney for the justices and constables, was there; so were a number of the justices and constables whom he represented, all prepared to back him up in his efforts to prevent the suit being taken to the higher court.

Mr. McGee stated that the Superior Court of Calaveras county had rendered a decision in a similar case pending in that county, upholding the constitutionality of the justices and constables salary law, which is about the same as the law passed for this county. The matter would be passed up to the supervisors of that county at their meeting Tuesday. In this aspect of the case he wanted Amador county to forego taking an appeal, and thereby avoiding all cost in such action; and throw upon Calaveras county the duty and cost of going to the higher court. He said that at the outset of this case in this county he entered into an agreement with the officials concerned to the effect that in case the Superior Court upheld the constitutionality of the law, the county officers would take the matter no further; on the other hand the justices and constables would then start no further actions. The district attorney had served a notice of appeal upon him, and he understood that the transcript on appeal was in the hands of the printer. Therefore the justices and constables were relieved from their agreement, and were in a position to start ten new suits each month for salary if they were so disposed, and that meant thousands of dollars expense to the losing party. The board of supervisors had petitioned the assemblyman to pass the bill; the people representing a majority of the taxpayers had petitioned the supervisors to uphold the bill; and he thought the supervisors ought not to appropriate money in an appeal to beat a law which they wanted passed. (The same line of argument appeared in a portion of the local press last week ostensibly under a different authorship.) He urged the board to pass a strong resolution setting forth the determination of the board to refuse to pay for printing transcript or any other expenses incurred in the appeal. Let Calaveras make the fight. That county was better able to do so. The district attorney of Amador had by failing to file a bill of exceptions within ten days, lost all right to show increase of compensation under the new bill. He would have to rely upon the sole question of classification of townships. A resolution setting forth that the supervisors would not allow any bills contracted in appealing the case, and giving reasons for this course of action, was in order.

Supervisor Grillo asked the pertinent question: Suppose we pass a resolution; and the appeal went on; and in case of the refusal of the board to pay the printer, a suit was brought against the county to collect the same.

Mr. McGee said in such a contingency he would agree to pay any judgment that might be rendered against the county.

A long resolution and preamble had been drawn up by the attorney for the justices, to meet his ideas of what ought to be done; but the members of the board were a little uncertain of their ground, especially in the absence of their legal adviser.

W. L. Rose, the justice of Sutter Creek, here essayed to enlighten the county fathers. The district attorney was the legal adviser of all county officers, and of himself as justice. The supervisors were not bound to act according to his opinion, any more than he as justice, was bound to be governed by it, unless it accorded with his own ideas of right. The petition of the taxpayers was a higher authority than the legal opinion of the district attorney.

Seeing that the members were a little shy, the attorney proceeded to tone down the resolution. It was proposed to notify all parties interested that the board would not allow bills incurred in the appeal. This did not suit. Again it was doctored; so that the clerk was to notify the Dispatch not to proceed with the printing until further orders. Just fancy the face of the clerk of the board telling the printer not to carry out an order for printing which the district attorney had given him.

This was also too raw. Again the medicine chest was consulted, and another mild dose inflicted to infuse life into the patient. Finally Mr. McGee stated that the justices and constables would either resign or bring ten suits a month to collect their fees. Just think of it. These officials who cannot afford to wait for a final determination of the validity of the law by the tribunal instituted for that purpose, are financially able to threaten Amador county with bankruptcy by ten suits per month, just for meanness as their representative plainly stated. As a further incentive to passing a resolution he told the board that they could rescind it at the next meeting if they so desired.

W. L. Rose again essayed to enlighten the board. He said the case was like that of a man and wife who had separated. The husband would be responsible for the debts of his spouse until he gave public notice to the contrary. So with the supervisors in this matter. If they would adopt the resolution of non-liability that would absolve the county from responsibility for an indebtedness created hereafter in the appeal matter. The ridiculous comparison was greeted with a broad grin.

At last the matter simmered down to a resolution against allowing any costs or expenses in appealing the case. The question arose as to who should father the motion. No one wanted to assume the role. Finally the chairman called M. Newman to the chair, and took the floor and moved its adoption.

The roll was called and all the members voted yes, except A. Grillo, who went on record against it.

Thereupon Mr. McGee remarked, "Better make it unanimous." Supervisor Grillo stood to his guns, with the most sensible remark made during the whole controversy, "No; I do not think the board has anything to do with it."

For St. Louis Exposition.

The California Department of Mines and Metallurgy has issued the following circulars. It is hoped that all mine owners and superintendents will take steps to forward samples of ore to headquarters, to the end that Amador county may be worthily represented at the Fair.

The work of collecting representative samples of the mineral products of California, for the state exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, is now in progress, and collectors are visiting the various counties in an endeavor to make the California mineral exhibit as comprehensive and representative as possible. As the funds for this purpose are limited, it will be impossible for collectors to visit many mines which are distant from transportation points, and as all sections of the state should be represented, the co-operation of mine owners and those interested in the development of our mineral resources is sought. As it may be impossible for the collector to visit your district, will you please forward at your earliest convenience samples which are representative of your property; also small pieces of the wall rocks or enclosing formations. A tag is herewith enclosed which please fill out with the information desired, and attach to the sample. It can be sent from any railroad point free of charge. Wells, Fargo & Co. have kindly consented to transport minerals free of charge not in excess of twenty pounds. Anything in excess of that weight should be forwarded by freight, the railroad companies having also kindly consented to waybill material for the exposition free of charge.

Why He Only Ate the Yelks.

An American woman traveling in England stopped one day at a little country house. Chatting with the visitor, the woman of the house told of her difficulty in getting along with an experience she had had with a boarder.

"The first morning this man stopped here," she said, "he began to eat boiled eggs very greedily. Egg after egg he ate—three, four, five, six—and it was only the yolk of them that he swallowed; the white he didn't bother with at all."

"When he dug his spoon into the seventh egg my temper got the better of me, and I said in a severe tone:

"Don't you ever eat the white of the egg, sir?"

"Surely not, my woman," he answered. "The yolk is the bird; the white is the feathers. Would you have me make a bolster of myself?"

Where It Always Rains.

There is a group of islands to the south of New Zealand called the Sisters, or Seven Sisters, which are reputed to be subjected to a practically constant rainfall. The same may be said of the islands and mainland of Tierra del Fuego.

Lightning Pranks.

"The most beautiful display of lightning or atmospheric electric phenomena which it was my good fortune to witness," says a resident of Quebec, "was out on the Beaufort flats, near Quebec, when two electrically laden clouds, as though two trees, their heads toward each other and their longer branches interwoven, kept on for more than ten minutes, interchanging horizontal flashes of beautifully colored fire, not one of which ever reached the earth, while occasionally a flash would shoot upward as if toward some cloud in that direction."

Notice of Sale.

Of Property of the State Pursuant to Section 3987 of the Political Code.

Office of the Tax Collector of the County of Amador, State of California.

WHEREAS, on the 1st day of September, 1929, there was received by me and in my office a written authorization, under the hand and seal of the Controller of the State of California, which said authorization was in words and figures following:

NOTICE.

Controller's Department, State of California.

To the Tax Collector of the County of Amador, State of California:

Whereas, on August 31, 1929, there was filed and recorded in the Controller's office of the State of California, a certain deed, to wit: The People of the State of California the title to certain lots and parcels of land hereinafter described:

And, whereas, said deeds recite the fact that said lots and parcels of land were levied and assessed against said property for the year 1927:

And, whereas, five years have elapsed since the date of said sale, and no redemption, according to law, has been made of said property, or any part thereof:

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the law in such cases made and provided by I, E. P. Colgan, Controller of the State of California, by virtue of the authority and power vested in me by the People of the State of California, do hereby authorize, empower, and direct you, the said Tax Collector, to sell at public auction, in separate lots or parcels, the property hereinafter described, in the manner following: Public notice shall first be given of such sale by publication for at least three weeks in some newspaper published in the county or city and county, for the same, which notices must state specifically the place of, and the day and hour of sale, and shall contain a description of the property to be sold, and shall also embody a copy of this authorization.

The property above referred to and hereby authorized to be sold, is situated, lying, and being in the County of Amador, State of California, bounded and particularly described as follows: To wit: House and lot in New Chicago, and two lots in New Chicago; sold to the State of California, June 27, 1928.

Said sale shall be received or accepted at said sale for less than the amount of all the taxes levied upon such property, and all interest, costs, penalties, and expenses up to the date of the sale hereby authorized, together with all such subsequent taxes as may have been levied upon said property up to the date of the issuance to the State of the deed or deeds hereinafter referred to, with all interest, costs, penalties, and other charges thereon added to such subsequent taxes.

That said sale shall be conducted in all respects as by law governing such sales.

Given under my hand and seal of office at Sacramento, this 11th day of August, A. D. 1930.

E. P. COLGAN, Controller.

By W. B. DOUGLAS, Deputy.

Therefore, in pursuance of law, public notice is hereby given that I will on SATURDAY, the 20th day of September, at public auction, at 10 o'clock a. m., in front of the Tax Collector's office, in the County of Amador, State of California, sell in one parcel, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in lawful money of the United States, the said property hereinafter in said authorization described, which said authorization is hereby made a part of this notice, to wit: Situated lying and being in the County of Amador, State of California, bounded and particularly described in said deed above referred to as follows, to wit: House and lot in New Chicago, and two lots in New Chicago. No bids will be received or accepted for said property for less than the amount of all the taxes levied upon said property and all interest, costs, penalties, and expenses up to the date of this sale, together with all subsequent taxes as may have been levied upon said property up to the date of the issuance to the State of the deed or deeds hereinafter referred to, with all interest, costs, penalties and other charges thereon added to such subsequent taxes.

Given under my hand at Jackson, in the County of Amador, State of California, the 1st day of September, 1930.

T. K. NORMAN,

Tax Collector of the County of Amador, State of California.

BOOTH'S DRAWING POWERS.

The Famous Tragedian Was a Star Money Maker.

A retired theater manager said the other day: "It is not generally known that Edwin Booth received 50 per cent of the gross receipts of his performances while under the management of Messrs. Brooks and Dixon. There never was a star on the stage who could draw the money that Booth could to a theater. There were no spasms about his business. It was as steady as Gibraltar. We could bank on it. Out of their half of the receipts Brooks and Dixon paid the rent for theaters, paid the salaries of the company, the railroad and hotel bills and the advertising throughout the country and made big profits, which they shared with Horace McVicker, to whom Booth entrusted his affairs at the start and who afterward associated himself with Brooks and Dixon."

"Booth's agreement with Henry E. Abbey was this: After all expenses of every description were paid Booth got 55 per cent and Abbey 15. Booth lost a week in Philadelphia owing to the death of his wife. The company was put in there without him, and we had to indemnify the local manager. Our loss that week was $4,000. Deducting that, Abbey's profits on the season were $30,000. I do not know any star, save Booth, who ever commanded 50 per cent of the gross receipts."—New York Press.

Where Blood Tells.

It was in one of the farming districts of New England. The young folks had banded themselves together for monthly jollifications during the winter and were about to celebrate the last dance of the season as well as a couple of engagements which had resulted from the assemblies. Ben Hawkins, the local Paganini, and his Stradivarius had been engaged to lead them through the mazes of the country dance, and all were looking forward to the "time of their life."

But death inconsiderately claimed Mrs. Hawkins for his own on the afternoon of the eventful party. The young people gathered as arranged, but he mourned the absence of Old Ben, and games were being substituted for the dancing when, lo, Hawkins and his fiddle appeared on the scene.

Great astonishment and many questions greeted the old man, but he calmly slipped his fiddle out of its green bag and as he meditatively rubbed the rosin on the bow said:

"Waal, yes; Maria's gone; died this afternoon. But I reckon 'tain't no sin for me to play for you tonight, seein' she wa'n't no blood relation."—Philadelphia Ledger.
